

"THE FIGHT AGAINST INFANTILE PARALYSIS"

The majority of the boys and girls of today do not realize what it would be like to wear braces, walk on crutches, or lie in bed the majority of the time. We cannot picture ourselves watching games instead of participating in them. The worst of the diseases which inflict disabilities such as these is infantile paralysis, known to many of us as polio. On Jan. 3, 1938 a foundation was established by Franklin D. Roosevelt for the prevention and cure of this dreaded disease. The funds obtained by voluntary contributions are used for scientific research, education and emergency aid in epidemics.

Perhaps many of us have had friends who have been disabled by polio. We have seen them struggle to obtain the level of an average boy or girl, and many of them have succeeded, but only through the contributions of the people. It is hard to realize, but someday our best friends, sisters, brothers or even ourselves may be victims of polio. The only assurance we have against infantile paralysis is through our own contributions. If each cadet of Augusta Military Academy would do without ten cents (the equivalent of two cokes) and donate that sum to the "March of Dimes" perhaps a boy or girl may become as normal as we, ourselves are today.

The Constitution Governs All Our Actions

The Korean outbreak just a year ago failed to upset the national morale despite the suddenness with which our recent war wounds had been reopened.

Prior to World War II and during the early months of actual fighting, America managed to keep turning her industrial wheels with no show of mass confusion or visible moral decline.

And now the people are going to make history again. Upon the Presidential Election may rest the fate of this Democratic nation. Yet, despite its quaking importance and international concern, the major actors on the critical scene are unbelievably contained within the tranquility of custom.

Why? How? The answer is as extraordinary as the effect. Each of these crises had been foreseen and provided for in the Constitution of 1787.

The date on the original document seems neither vital nor dynamic in the face of today, but nevertheless, those provisions which afforded success to our founding fathers is meeting the needs of today. Its original underlying principles will ever be the guiding light to a grateful nation. The protection of the minority, human equality, and the protection of property.

When we view the Constitution, let us look, not so much to the glass-covered parchment in the Library of Congress, but to the Constitution as it determines the course of today and as it is written on the hearts of its people.

Juniors spend their time swimming when not drilling in "D" Co.

To the first year high school came: Dick Bramwell, Elyria, Ohio; Lee Forbes, Virginia Beach, Va.; Jimmy Harris, brother of Hank Harris, Washington, D. C.; Don Quiggs, Arlington, Va. All of these cadets have chosen swimming for their pastime sport.

To the sophomore class came: Dick Henderson, Pittsburgh, Penna.; Jack Janney, Oak Hill, W. Va.; Bill Wheeler, Baltimore, Md. These three cadets seem to like basketball best.

To the junior class came: Jack

Geiger, Mt. Airy, N. C.; Maearie Luarco, Camaguey, Cuba. Geiger likes basketball so well that he garnered a first place position on AMA's quintet. Luarco has taken to wrestling.

Orosman Ferro and Raul Lopez returned and resumed their studies in the Junior and Senior classes. Lopez is now a member of the Varsity basketball team.

As post-graduates came Johnny Warihay and Buddy Rudolph—the former hails from Coatesville, Penna., and the latter from Virginia Beach, Va. Warihay has already won several first places on the varsity swimming team; Buddy Rudolph has continued his winning streak on the fencing team.

"A Place in the Sun" – Still the Best Movie

What To Read – See And Hear

"The Spark of Life" – Worth Reading Now

Seldom have we had a longer run of absolutely rotten movies as we have had since Christmas. The one bright spot on the movie scene was George Steven's masterpiece "A Place In The Sun" starring Elizabeth Taylor, Montgomery Clift, and Shelley Winters, which has already been discussed in an earlier issue of the "Bayonet".

Since then, however, we have been asked to patronize such trash as "The Flame of Araby", "The Lady Pays Off", and the typical Saturday Western. When we hear the slogan "Movies are better than ever", we can certainly say, they will have to be, for they cannot get any poorer.

The Broadway scene has been considerably different. By now everyone knows that Judy Garland has resurrected vaudeville at the Palace and Decca has taken advantage of the occasion to issue an album of "Judy at the Palace", and it contains everyone's favorites—"Over the Rainbow", "The Trolley Song", "Meet Me In St. Louis", "For Me and My Gal", "Embraceable You", and others... Seldom has there been more starlight on any stage... Judy sings a medley of songs that she has made famous and does the "Get Happy" number from "Summer Stock" and "A Couple of Swell Guys", from "Easter Parade". When at the end of her act amid a tremendous burst of applause, she sits down on the podium and sings "Over the Rainbow", there is hardly a person in the audience who is not moved at the gallant Judy Garland's performance and comeback.

Jos'e Ferrer has done it again, which simply means that he has done a tremendous job of breathing life into a talkative play, "The Shrike." He holds one's attention during the entire play and proves that Hollywood did quite right in signalling him out as the best actor of the past year. "The Shrike's" story is more of an actor's showpiece. Jos'e Ferrer is brought to a mental institution after an attempt at suicide. Judith Evelyn, his predatory wife, poisons his doctors' minds and slowly entangles him in her grasp so that submission to her web is better than detention with the insane and procedure bound doctors at the hospital. The final scene, depicting Jos'e Ferrer's complete breakdown, is a superb job of acting.

"Top Banana" stars Phil Silvers in a musical marathon; "Paint Your Wagon" with James Barton and Olga San Juan, is a minor "Oklahoma!" with some nice songs, "Remains to be Seen" with Jackie Cooper and Janis Paige is a mystery comedy which is rather funny in spots.

The real glamour of Broadway, however, is at the Ziegfeld, where Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh present "Caesar and Cleopatra" by G. B. Shaw and "Antony and Cleopatra" by Wm. Shakespeare.

READ

For the coming month we have selected several books of different types which we feel would prove of interest as well as enjoyment.

SPARK OF LIFE. By Erich Maria Remarque. This is a new novel that probes the spirit of a concentration camp and its survivors. It is a book hard to read but of a type that once begun, it is impossible to put down. Once you become acquainted with the remnants of humanity who live in what is known as the Small Camp (at Mellern) you find it very hard to desert them.

This camp had no gas chambers. Of this fact the Commandant was very proud for he liked to explain, one died a natural death.

CADETS OF THE MONTH

By Si Nunn, Sports Editor

With this issue the Bayonet will begin a new feature which will bring notice to those cadets outstanding the previous month.

This month of January is predominant with sports and thus we present the cadets who have made records in their chosen field of athletics.

BASKETBALL: This honor goes to Al Doyle who is continuing the fine record he established at English High School, Lynn, Mass.

At this school he was captain of his team and was voted the most valuable man on the quintet and was signally honored by placement on the first string center on All-New England Team.

He scored 250 points in 14 games for an average of 18 points a game. Since coming to AMA and playing the same sports he has averaged about the same number of points and has been a team leader throughout the season—which although a dismal one—has this cadet for a bright star and thus this honor.

RIFLE: Without a doubt Pete Angle is one of the best shots in the history of this sport at Augusta. He is co-captain of the sharpshooters.

Pete Angle

In practice rounds he has fired 284 and 281 and has led all Military Science Students in qualifying for ROTC awards.

He has led his teammates twice in four out of five meets of competitive encounters—all of which have been victorious for Augusta.

If present indications are truthful the AMA team is headed towards the State Title and is in a large sense due to the efforts of this top firing cadet.

WRESTLING: Peyton Moore takes this honor for his consistent performance on the mat and for his deep interest in keeping this sport out in front.

Last year—his first in this sport—he went undefeated in Peyton Moore competition and went on to the State Meet at Charlottesville to win Second Place in the 96 pound class.

This season in his four meets he has won four, losing only to his opponent from Jefferson High, Roanoke, Va.

FENCING: Buddy Rudolph is undoubtedly the finest fencer ever to grace the strip in this sport in the school's history. Last year Buddy went undefeated the entire season, defeating all of his opponents both at West Point and Annapolis—a feat never before duplicated at Augusta and I mean that Augusta ranks with the best of the teams in this sport in the country.

Why not visit the book stores in Staunton and look over these selections.

Wyoming had a newspaper in 1869 before it became a territory. James Franklin started the New England Courant in 1721 in Boston.

Buddy Rudolph

and Annapolis—a feat never before duplicated at Augusta and I mean that Augusta ranks with the best of the teams in this sport in the country. It might interest the uninitiated to learn that we have men on the Varsity Team at West Point, North Carolina State, Virginia, Lafayette, etc.

This year thus far, Buddy has kept his record untarnished.

SWIMMING: Roger Messick, a true AMA product in every sense of the word, is making record after record this season—his best in four years.

So far he is undefeated in dual competition and should remain that way through the entire season.

Techlets on the scene are Ed Crouch (25) and Kenny Boerner (left). Boerner played last year for Staunton Military Academy.

Granby Edges AMA Tankmen

With the judges' decision disqualifying Johnny Warihay in the 150 yard individual medley, the Augusta Swimmers went down to defeat to Granby High School by the score of 40-35.

Despite this fact Augusta took four firsts, four seconds and three thirds. Captain Roger Messick took two firsts in the 50 yard and 100 yard free style; Warihay took first in the 100 yard breaststroke; Parker Ward took first in the 100 yard backstroke.

Jock Bair came out of the infirmary after being quarantined for a week to take a second in the 200 yard freestyle.

Results:

50-yard freestyle—Messick (A), Bowers (A), Barganis (G): time 24.6.

100-yard breaststroke—Warihay (A), Mitchell (G), Fox (A): time 1:12.5.

20-yard freestyle relay—won by Granby with Barganiz, Light, Davis, and Hull.

Unable to hold on to a hard earned advantage won in the second quarter, Augusta Military Academy dropped a 56-68 decision to the Virginia Tech junior varsity cagers. It was the Cadets' second loss of the season to the Baby Gobblers, who had taken an earlier 67-42 victory at Blacksburg.

Only in that second period could Coach Jerry Claiborne's charges hold their own with the visitors. They were outscored in the first, 18-12; in the third, 20-10, and in the fourth, 18-14. In the second the Augustans hit for 20 points while limiting the Techlets to twelve, wiping out a six point deficit in the process. They left the floor at halftime with a 32-30 edge.

After intermission, however, VPI resumed the type of play it displayed in the opening stanza. It grabbed a 34-33 lead after the first few minutes of action and led the rest of the way, widening the gap as the game progressed.

Camel Sets Pace

Bob Camel, the little but aggressive guard who helped AMA to the state championship last season, helped beat his alma mater. He not only led the visitors in scoring with 16 points, but broke up Augusta passes, stole the ball, and made himself pretty much of a nuisance as far as Claiborne was concerned. Kenny Boerner, who played his prep school basketball at Staunton Military Academy, also was a key man in the attack of the visitors with his shooting, ball handling, and work under the backboards. He bucketed 14 markers.

Augusta produced a couple of outstanding individual performers in Ralph Budreau, who bagged 20 points, Sam Arbuckle, and Al Doyle, but the Cadets did not show the smoothness or ball handling ability that has marked Augusta quintets of seasons past.

The visitors threatened to run away with the game right at the start, bagging seven points before Doyle hit from the foul line for Augusta. VPI opened up an eleven point gap until Arbuckle and Budreau started hitting from the floor with one handers to cut the junior varsity's lead to six points, 18-12, at the end of the first quarter.

Budreau Takes Over

Dick Ellis slapped in a rebound for the visitors as play was resumed in the second quarter, but Budreau single handedly knotted the count with three field goals and a pair of charity tosses. Doyle made it 22-20 and Arbuckle 24-20, Augusta, and the host club held to its lead until halftime.

When play was resumed after

Plebes Outtouch Augusta Foilsmen

intermission Doyle converted from the free line to make it 33-30, but Boerner, Camel, and Tom Petty threw in three straight buckets from the floor to give the lead back to the visitors, and they stayed on top of the rest of the way.

Three times Augusta got within a point, but, with the score at 40-39, Boerner, Camel, and Andy Anderson got the Techlets out front by a comfortable margin and the closest AMA got thereafter was seven points. At one time it trailed by 14.

The loss was the third in four starts for Augusta.

Only 60 Minutes From Augusta

Natural Bridge—Nature's Epic A Symphony of Beauty, Rock

Located about fifteen miles from Lexington, Virginia on U.S. Highway No. 11, is a massive stone bridge between two towering cliffs, the Natural Bridge of Virginia. This marvel, one of the seven natural wonders of the world, is truly a "miracle in stone".

Jefferson Visited N.B.

The Natural Bridge has a history of many million years. The small creek that winds its way through the opening still today did a tremendous job of cutting through the rock. At one time, the entire valley wherein the bridge is located was level with the top of the bridge. Then the creek which flows there found a crevice in a rock and began to flow down through the rocks to lower ground below. This process, over a period of several million years, formed a large cavern beneath the surface of the earth. At a later period, an earthquake or some similar eruption of the earth's surface took place and caused a great part of the cavern to cave in leaving overhead only one mighty span of solid rock, the bridge itself.

N.B. Million Years Old

The first record that is known of a human visiting the site was when the Indian tribes that inhabited this area went to the spot and worshipped the miracle in the early morning light. With England's colonization of Virginia, the bridge became the property of the King of England. Later, Edward granted the property to an American statesman known to us all, Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson visited there often and built a small cabin there for his family and himself.

"G. W." Carved Initials

At a later date, a colonel in the English reserves who had some knowledge as a surveyor went to the great stone bridge and surveyed all of the property surrounding it. He even crawled up the side of the bridge itself to a height of about thirty feet where he carved his initials in the rock. That rock may still be viewed today with the initials "G.W." on it—the initials of a then little known colonel, George Washington.

Tourists Visit Shrine

Not only does the bridge attract many tourists, but there are many other attractions near the location. The beautiful Natural Bridge Hotel sits on a hill nearby where many famous celebrities of the nation have stopped to visit. Passing down the path to the old bridge, we see many old Arbor-Vitae trees, some over two thousand years old. Beyond the span which rises some 225 feet, is Hemlock Island, scene of many gay picnics and dances in the Gay Nineties. Crossing a bridge from the island, we come to an old salt-petre cave which supplied powder for the War of 1812 and the Civil War. It is well known as the "coolest place in Rockbridge County." About two hundred yards further up the path, we see the outlet of the Lost River. There has never been traced the origin of this mysterious stream which flows from beneath a towering hill even though men have risked their lives in the attempt. The last feature attraction that is to be seen is the beautiful cascading Lace Falls where the turbulent waters drop in ceaseless splendor.

"The Miracle In Stone"

Such is this "miracle in stone." Will Rogers once described it as the only useful natural wonder in the world in that a highway passes directly over the span. Conceived by the waters of the earth Visited by the great of a nation—Unsurpassed in beauty and enchantment—such phrases truly describe the "Miracle in Stone," the Natural Bridge of Virginia.

"J" Barracks News Column

Sometimes my heart is weak and falls down.
He lifts me up,
And draws me into a good road
His name is Wonderful

Sometime—it may be very soon.
It may be long, long time—
He will draw me into a place between the mountains
It is dark there. I will not draw back:

I will not be afraid.
There, between these mountains
The Shepherd-Chief will meet me.
Then the Heart Hunger I have felt
All my life will be satisfied.
He gives me a staff to lean on

Before me he spreads a table
With all kinds of food.
He puts his hand upon my head.
And all the tired is gone
My cup he fills till it runs over

What I tell you is true
I lie not. After this life
I shall live in the Big Tepee
And be with the Shepherd-Chief forever.

ODDITIES

Just the other day, just for curiosity we asked Mr. Saylor Smith, the A.M.A. janitor, what he usually found in the various trash cans on the stoop. The following articles were found: 1 candy wrapper, 4 cigarette butts, 2 chicken bones, a large box, a paper bag, and the remains of an apple.

(1) Did you know that the odd side of barracks has 8 pillars, while the even side has only 1?

(2) A.M.A. is the only school in America whose principal has a bell which is rung on his entrance.

(3) Did you know that every cadet spends 70 minutes a day just attending formations, including drill?

(4) Exactly 100 cadets went to the cadet movie to see "Winchester 73".

(5) There are 84 cadets whose names begin with the letter s, 22 cadets whose name begins with c, 18 whose names begin with m, 18 whose names begin with b, 17 whose names begin with h.
